Characters, N. C., October 15.—A very remerkable case is to-night reported from Montgomery county. For some weeks Henry Sassen and his wife have both been suffering very much. They are an old couple, both having celebrated their seventieth birthday. The old man was suffering with heart-disease and his wife with typhoid-fever. Sunday evening Mr. Sassen died, and in exactly two hours his wife was a corpse also. They were buried yesterday in a double coffin.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., October 15.—The trial of Edward Brown, charged with the murder of Editor R. J. Page, which has been in progress at Marion since last Thursday, ended to-day in the acquittal of Brown. The case was given to the jury yesterday evening, and they were locked up all last night in consultation. The verdict of "Not Guilty" was brought in this morning, and Brown was at once set at liberty.

The secret societies at Harvardare having lots of fun this year at the expense of freshmen desirons of entering the mystic circle. The initiation ceremonies have in freshmen desirons of entering the mystic circle. The initiation ceremonics have in some instances been successfully enforced, to the great enjoyment of the members and the mental distress of the victims. There is one young fellow who feels that he has fairly carned his membership. He is the son of a wealthy Chicagoan, and when he entered Harvard this fall he engaged the most expensive suite of rooms in Beck Hall and fitted them up regardless of expense. The furnishings and draperies were of the costliest fabric, and the high priced brief-abroc showed that there was plenty of money at the disposal of the occupant. This young man, rearred in the lap of luxmy and ignorant of want, made applicant in the object of the society he would have given half of his wealth to have backed out. It was decreed that he should sell papers and black boots in the public square in Cambridge for the space of one week. It was a tough job, but the applicant showed his grit by obeying the mandate to the letter. Every day for a week, after leaving the recitation-room, he went to his palatual suite of rooms, exchanged his good clothes for an old suit, daubod some blacking on his face and hands as a partial protection against the scrutiny of passers-by, and carried out the stern decree of the order. He blacked the boots of the professors and sold them papers without revealing his identity, and same with some has a five the stern decree of the order. The Massachusetts goosebone has a rival in the muskrat for the position of weather prophet. The muskrat holds down a chair emeritus in the Northwest territory, and this year he has erected a double-decked blizzard-proof casepy over the chair and has announced that he expects that it will be a hard winter for the poor. The average inhabitant of the muskrat territory relies with exceeding reliance upon the words of wisdom uttered by the muskrat, and in consequence heavy overcoats, double-thick underwear, and hot water bags are in great demand. As between the goosebone, which predicted a very fine winter for Massachusetts, and the muskrat, which predicts a very severe one for Dakota, we ought to enjoy weather of that temperate and equable character for which Richmond and always will be notable. So do not take in the awnings yet, and do not growl if the stoves do not appear in their accustomed places.
